

PRESS KIT / ELECTRONIC PRESS PAGE

Music is only the beginning.

The Performa is the live performance identity of Atlanta artist Chip Lee: an immersive musical experience where electronic sound, live instrumentation, choreography, and technology converge into a single performance environment.

Rather than standing behind a booth delivering a sequence of tracks, Chip Lee transforms the stage into a living experience. Movement, rhythm, visual energy, and audience interaction turn each performance into a shared moment between artist and crowd, less like a DJ set and more like a cultural event unfolding in real time.

BOOKING SNAPSHOT

SHOW ARCHITECTURE

Three chapters built for escalation, memory, and room control.

The Performa is designed as a multi-dimensional live performance where music, live instrumentation, movement, technology, and audience connection converge into a single shared environment.

PHASE I

Connection

MUSIC / MOVEMENT /
SHARED RHYTHM

Music and movement open the room and establish the shared rhythm between performer and audience.

PHASE II

Elevation

LIVE INSTRUMENTS /
CHOREOGRAPHY / GLOBAL SOUNDS

Live instruments, choreography, and global sounds build momentum as energy rises across the crowd. The room transforms from spectators to participants.

PHASE III

Impact

PEAK / RELEASE / MEMORY

The performance lands its strongest moments, the collective peak where sound, motion, and crowd energy converge into a moment the audience remembers long after the night ends.
